BOY RUN OVER AND SERIOUSLY INJURED. Boy Rus Over and Seriously Injured. Day before yesterday, a boy named Henry Rickber, about twelve years of age, was run over by a buggy on Clinton-street, near Central-avenue, and seriously injured. His right arm was broken, one of his eyes knocked out, and his body otherwise considerably bruised. Yesterday he was removed to the Commercial Hospital, where he now lies suffering severely from his wounds.

MAN THROWN FROM A BUGGY AND NEARLY KILLED.—A man named Aaron Fuchs was yesterday thrown from a buggy, on Johnstreet, near Elizabeth, and injured so seriously that it is feared he can not recover. He was endeavoring at the time to leave the track of the City Passenger Street Railroad Company, when his horse taking fright ran away, dashing the vehicle against a tree with such force as to knock it literally to pieces. The unfortunate man was thrown violently against a post, striking it with his abdomen, and falling to the ground in such a manner as seriously to injure his spine. He was carried into a neighboring house and medical assistance obtained, but at a late hour last evening he was semi-unconscious and unable to be removed. Mr. F., we understand, is quite a worthy man, residing on Everett-street, between Cutter and Linn, and has a large circle of friends, who will hear of the accident with regret, and sympathize with him in his suffering.

HEAVY SALE OF REAL ESTATE. - Day before HEAVY SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Day before yesterday, Cooper & Stokes, the real estate autioneers, sold thirty-five pieces of property, all of which were owned by David Gloson, and situated in the North-western portion of the city. The lots front on Linn, Baymiller, York, Bank, Dayton and Coleman-streets, and on Western and Central-avenues, and the prices ranged from $22 50 to $91 per front foot, the whole amount of the sale reaching $60.092 40.

Yesterday morning C. J. W. Smith sold six lots, in Ewing & Hartshorne's sub-division, fronting on Lock, Baum, Oregon and Fifth-streets, the prices ranging from $8 to $51 per front foot, and the sale amounting in the streets, the prices ranging from $8 to $01 per front foot, and the sale amounting in the aggregate to $3,216. At both of the sales the attendance was large and the bidding spirited, while the prices were such as readily show the rapid increase in the value of property which has heretofore been regarded as too far removed from the heart of the city to be esteemed valuable.

House of Refuge Statistics.—The bills from the Superintendent of the House of Refuge, for the months of February and March, were yesterday presented to the County Commissioners. The cost of maintaining eighty-two inmates during February amounted to $635 17, and seventy-eight inmates during March to $631 93.

Unfortunate Affray between two Prominent Physicians—Allopathy versus Eclesticism.—On Saturday, March 31, a difficulty occurred on Seventh-atreet, between Vine and Race, between Drs. O. E. Newton and A. E. Heighway, in which the latter was severely beaten, and injured in such a manner as to be confined to his room for several days. A short time since a warrant was issued at the instance of Dr. H., charging Dr. N. with assault and battery, and the case came up for trial yesterday in the Police Court.

The examination was not concluded when the Court adjourned at six o'clock, and although fourteen or fifteen witnesses had been examined, the prosecution had not yet gotten through with its testimony. The circumstances, so far as we could learn them from the evidence elicited before the jury, were briefly these: UNPORTUNATE AFFRAY BETWEEN TWO the evidence elicited before the jury, were briefly these:

On the morning to which we have referred a patient of Dr. Newton's tied his horse to a tree-box in front of Dr. Heighway's office, immediately adjoining that of Dr. N., and passed into the house of his physician. For some cause which does not appear, Dr. H. unhitched the horse, left him standing in the street, and then returned to his house. A short time afterward he found the horse had a second time been tied before his door, and a second time he unhitched the animal. At this moment Capt. James Newton, brother to the physician, came out of Dr. N.'s bouse, apparently for the purpose of re-hitching the

to the physician, came out of Dr. N.'s bouse, apparently for the purpose of re-hitching the horse. While these parties were talking of the affair Dr. Newton came upon the scene, and the fight took place.

As we have already stated, the testimony was not concluded when the Court adjourned, and the case promises to occupy its attention during the greater portion of to-day. Hard feelings seem to have existed between the belligerent parties for some time, which have doubtless had their effect in bringing about this unfortunate rupture; but the case as it stands, appears to us merely an attempt, on the one part, to provoke a breach of the peace, which the other was equally willing should take place.

Capt. James Newton and George L. Whit-more, who seem to be in some mysterious manner counceted with the affair, were also included in the charge, and both the parties claim to have acted in self-defense. The tes-timony for the defense will be heard to-day, and some new facts, in all probability, elicited, which we shall lay before our readers in our next issue.

SINGULAR ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE—AN UN-KNOWN WOMAN THROWS HERSELF FROM A PERRY-BOAT INTO THE RIVER.—A woman, whose name we were unable to ascertain, but whose streaming eyes gave evidence of the rude manner in which she had been treated by the world, vesterday morning leaped from by the world, yesterday morning leaped from one of the Covington Ferry-boats into the river.

Her clothes, however, saved her from the liquid death in which she hoped to find peace, and she was taken up by some persons who went to her in a skiff. She was, apparently, about thirty-five years of age; but who she was or what the circumstances were which induced her in this manner to attempt to take from the hands of Lachesis, the instrument with which to sever the somber thread that binds which to sever the somber thread that binds which to sever the somes threat that ohas her to life, no one knows. She was taken to St. John's Hotel des Invalides, where we hope she may recover and yet live to see in all its beauty the silver lining to the cloud that now seems to overshadow her life.

XXXVIO CONGRESS-PRIST SESSION

Washington, April 10.

SENATE.—Mr. Summer presented the memorial of Mr. Sanborn, of Concord, Mass., in regard to the gross attempt to kidnap him by persons claiming to act under the authority of the United States Senate.

Mr. Summer narrated the circumstances attending the capture of Mr. Sanborn, and his subsequent release, and said the act was conspicuous both as regards the man against subsequent release, and said the act was conspicuous both as regards the man against whom the attack was directed and the place where it occurred.

Mr. Sanborn was a gentleman of excellent fame as a scholar said of pure life. This was the man who was seized. This attempt was made at Concord, where a seizure was once before attempted, which anded in the revolution of these States. The Senate owed something to its own character, and should wash its hands of this transaction. He moved the reference of the memorial to the Judiciary Committee.

hands of this transaction. He moved the reference of the memorial to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Mason said this man Sanborn was shown to be either in correspondence with the man who was hung at Harper's Ferry as a traitor and murderer, or with some of his friends. He had, therefore, been summoned by the Committee of the Senate to testify. He replied, refusing to come on the ground that he feared personal violence.

A warrant was then issued against him, and the Sergeaut-at-Arms sent deputies to arrest him, who did so, but he was resened by a mob and afterward discharged by Justice Shaw upon a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Sanborn's memorial was then read. He claims that he has rightfully resisted the summons of the Senate; complains of his unwarranted arrest and the brutality attending it, and asks redress at the hands of the Senate.

Mr. Sumner wished to correct one statement which fell from the Senator from Virginia. Mr. Sanborn was taken from the control of pretended officers, not by a mob, but by a writ of habeas corpus, enforced by a parts compilate.

Mr. Sumner reluctantly consented, with the understanding that it shall be called up when the process shall be returned.

The bill to amend the act for the admission of Oregon, so as to extend the period when Oregon could locate certain grants of land, was passed.

The Homestead bill was taken up.
Mr. Doolittle spoke in favor of the House bill. During his remarks there were frequent colloquies between him and other Senators, but nothing of special interest transpired.

Without action the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—Mr. Taylor, a member of the Judiciary Committee, read his argument in support of the President's protest. He denied that the House has the power to intimate or carry out any investigation of any kind according to its will or pleasure. It so, this would be consistent with the great principle of law everywhere, where the rights of individuals are concerned, and as a consequence the adoption of the resolution in relation to the President was in violation of this great principle of law. He refers to the powers of the Select Committee as extraordinary and inquisitorial, when not a particle of evidence against the President had been placed before the House.

In conclusion, he says that the positions against the President had been placed before the House.

In conclusion, he says that the positions taken by the President are right, and the protest made by him has a solid foundation in the provisions of the Constitution, and those great principles which underlie every system of law established for the administra-tion of justice.

Mr. Hickman moved that twenty thousand copies of the reports be printed. The propriety of this was referred to the Printing Committee. Committee.
On motion of Mr. Hickman the further consideration was postponed till Monday

Mr. Grow called up the bill for the admission of Kansas into the Union. After a somewhat lengthy debate Mr. Grow gave notice that he should ask for a vote to-morrow.

Washington News.

Washington, April 10.—It is understood that some of the Republican Senators are to have a conference this week, in order to consider an amendment prepared by Senator Simmons to the commercial clause of the Mexican Treaty. As the treaty now stands, it would, in the matter of importations, confer on England, France, Beigium and other nations, great advantages as to this country, because, by our existing treaties with them they could claim all the benefits extended to the most favored nations, among which Mexico would be included, and also give them advantages equal to our own in Mexico at advantages equal to our own in Mexico at our expense. This is the interpretation given to the clause by one of the Senators. The object of the amendment by Mr. Simmons is to secure for ourselves exclusively, the adto secure for cursavas, excusively, the advantages of commerce and domestic produce. This, it is supposed, can be accomplished, in which event the other clauses of the treaty will become comparatively unobjectionable to several of those Senators who are opposed to the treaty in its original form. This movement is regarded as indicative of an improvement in the prospects of a ratification of the treaty. There is reason to believe that the parties directly interested will acquiesce in such an amendment.

Montaigne on Chess.

Montaigne on Chess.

Montaigne, in his Essay on Democritus and Horaclitus, uses the following complimentary language, in Speaking of Chess: "Why shall not I judge of Alexander, ranting and drinking, as he sometimes did, at table, or if he played at Chess, what string of his soul was not touched and employed by this idle childish game? I hate and avoid it, because it is not merry enough, but too serious a diversion, ish game? I hate and avoid it, because it is not merry enough, but too serious a diversion, and I am ashamed to spend as much thought upon that as would serve to much better uses. He did not more pump his brains to form his glorious expedition to the Indies, and another took not more pains to clear a passage, upon which depends the safety of all mankind. Do but see how we confound this silly diversion, if the soni be not all attention to it, and what a field is thereby opened for every one to know and to make a right judgment of himself? I do no more thoroughly sift myself in any other posture. What passion are we exempt from in this game? Anger, spite, malice, impatience, and a vehement desire of getting the better in a concern wherein it were more excusable to be ambitious of being overcome; for, to be eminent, and to excel above the common rate in frivolous things, is not graceful in a man eminent, and to excel above the common rate in frivolous things, is not graceful in a man of home.

Other old writers seem to have had the same opinion of the trifling mature of the game; for, Erssnus, in the preface of the Praiss of Folly, speaking of the condemnation which his book was likely to receive at the hands of the critics, for its purrillty and trifling on serious matters, justifies himself by a reference to Home a Programa Mice, and other such works, and adds; "if my censors do not choose to be paid in this sort of coin, they have only to imagine that I am playing at Chess to amuse myself, or at some childish pastime."

here to their agents to be sold for what they would bring, in order to leave the home market clear for the symmetry fall wares.

The early winter and apring trade, although resulting in a larger business than anticipated, was such, not at first, as to encourage heavy orders in advance for the later spring and early summer trade. Nor have the profits on the dry goods branch of business been such, of late, as to change the views of the importers materially. Complaint is made of the great inequality of prices, which competition among both jobbers and importers for the southern custom—by far the most destrable this essent, as last—gave rise to.

And the end has been some very considerable sacrifices on certain descriptions of Continental Dry Goods through the suction-rooms. It is, therefore, safe to conclude that the extreme increase in the importations at New York, and probably for the whole country, over last year, was strained at the close of March. The Boston Boot and Shoe Market,—The Shoe and Leather Reporter, of the 6th, says.

The market is without any material change. Only a limited quantity of orders have been received from the South and West, and the principal business is with the Now England and Nova Soutia trade. In this branch transactions have been considerable. Stocks of goods do not increase and prices are firm. In some forms the Journeymen are receiving higher wages, but only the best workmen are employed; the consequence will be that a better class of warfe will be got out in those towns, and bester satisfaction grown to customer. This is the way it should be all over the State—pay a good price for making a good strice only, and not allow the power workmen to customer the regular prices—got out one but good work, and in less quantity.
